Understanding credit and payment markets for Europe

The European Credit Research Institute provides in-depth analysis and insight into the structure, evolution and regulation of retail financial services markets in Europe. Through its research activities, publications and conferences, ECRI keeps its members up-to-date on a variety of topics on payments and consumer credit at European level, such as consumer credit and housing loans, instant payments, online payments, credit reporting and consumer protection. ECRI also provides a venue for its members to participate in the EU level policy discussion.

ECRI is an independent, non-profit research institute that develops its expertise from an interdisciplinary team and networks of academic cooperation partners. It was founded in 1999 by a consortium of European banking and financial institutions. ECRI's operations and staff are managed by the Centre for European Policy Studies.

PRINCIPAL ACTIVITIES

ECRI aims to contribute to the development of European retail financial markets by conducting in-depth analysis of the relevant regulatory initiatives that are taking place at the EU level. In the current reshaping of the European financial markets, the issues of special interest for the Institute are the developments in the consumer credit and mortgage markets, the role and the use of credit information, the rapidly evolving payment services industry with the emerging of new electronic payment solutions such as instant payments, the development of the digital euro, open banking and open finance. In order to ensure the high relevance of the topics analysed, the Institute welcomes its member organisations to raise the issues that are of concern to their business. Through scientifically robust research reports, task forces and conferences, ECRI provides the venue for the discussion of these issues between the industry, policy makers, academia as well as other stakeholders.

RESEARCH

- ECRI Research Reports present in-depth analyses of the key issues affecting retail financial services in the member states of the European Union. ECRI participates in large-scale research projects in cooperation with the European Commission and with other international research institutions.
- ECRI Policy Briefs give overviews of ongoing regulatory or policy initiatives impacting the European retail financial services landscape.
- ECRI Commentaries provide informed insights and views on the EU retail financial services market and the latest regulatory developments.
- ECRI Statistical Package offers a comprehensive annually updated dataset that presents the latest available statistical information on credit to households and relevant macroeconomic developments.

CONFERENCES & ROUNDTABLES

ECRI Conferences debate emerging policy questions and provide a platform for an open exchange of views among policy-makers, academics, industry representatives and consumer associations. ECRI Roundtables provide the ECRI members an exclusive possibility to discuss issues of special concern together with policy makers and selected other stakeholders.
